Be apart of the premier images of Paul Murray's newest series of originals. Never before has Murray let you so close to his creations in progress. Hot off the easel, the very first pencil originals that will emerge later in large paintings and limited editions. There always seems to be a certain raw passion and freshness in these types of pictures that I love. "Grandmas Hands" a young boy stands shyly while grandma gently rests her hands on his shoulders; Little Zoe' with her day old sheep. Innocence and peace seem overwhelm in this sketch. "Briar Patch" a study for the currently released limited edition. "Zoe & Teddy" Zoe' hides behind her buddy the bear. These little friends are so important to us as children. A wonderful time to remember.

CRACKLIN'S & CRACKLIN' BREAD by MARYBELL CALDWELL (Daughter of "Kentucky Stitch" pencil by Paul Murray)

On hog killin day, usually een November, Dad would cut the hams and shoulders from the hog. Then trim the fat and part os the rinds from them. Then we would help Mom cut the pieces in about 1" cubes. These we would fry in a thick kettle, so as not to let them burn. They had to fry slow after they got real brown and crispy, we strained them through a white cloth. Then we put the cracklins' in hot dry jars and covered them with some of the hot grease and sealed them. Some times we put them remainder of the grease in a large can and sealed it. This was used to cook or gry with. We stirred some cracklings' in our cornbread batter and baked it. We all loved it very much. Sometimes Mom cut some of the trimmed rinds into small pieces and baked them in the oven. They were much better than the pork rinds you buy today. Marybell & some other friends, may be visiting us at October original show.
